PREFACE

This little sketch is not intended to be a history of the lives and deeds of the great men and good women of this lineage who helped to blaze the pathway of civilization on the colonial shores of this country, nor is it intended to tell of the part their descendants have taken in the affairs of state and nation. It is scarcely nothing more than a register of marriages, births, and deaths; such as is generally kept in the family Bible, together with an occasional military record, collected here in order that those who care to may learn of their ancestry.

I am aware of the fact that there are many events of historical and military interest that are intimately connected with this family history which should be recorded, but their very nature demands a separate treatise, which I leave for another to write. I am also aware of many imperfections, and possibly some errors, in this little sketch. Due effort has been made to remedy them but this, in some instances, has been found impossible for several reasons.

I know of nothing that I dislike so much as to see my own name misspelled, therefore I have used every care to secure the desired spelling of the names in this sketch. In some instances I have written several letters to determine whether a letter was an "O" or an "A." In others I have had to depend on "hearsay" and "I think." If you find your name misspelled I beg your pardon and ask your indulgence.

This work was not undertaken under the patronage of anyone; neither was it suggested by anyone, but is based upon some information which was collected by my step-father, Rev. William H. Wilson, prior to his death in 1904. The incomplete notes were found among his papers, and seeing that these contained too much of family history to be lost, I have made an effort to gather more information, and complete the work he had already outlined, hoping that his descendants would give it their appreciation, which would secure for it careful preservation and transmission to succeeding generations. The results of my investigations I desire to lay before those who belong to this worthy lineage. If there is any word of censure to bestow I must bear it alone.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I wish to express my appreciation to everyone who has helped me in any way in assembling the information for, and the preparation of, this little sketch; especially Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, Director of the Division of History and Archaeology of the Commonwealth of Virginia, Richmond, Virginia; Mr. Norman R. Robinson, Archivist of the Virginia State Library, Richmond, Virginia; Mr. Milton C. Russell, Head Reference and Circulation Section, State Library, Richmond, Virginia; and the young lady assistants in the State Library, Richmond, Virginia, who helped so much by finding books I wanted, bringing them to me and putting them away; Rev. E. C. Scott, D.D., Stated Clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, Atlanta, Georgia; Miss Clementine Reid Wilson and her sister, Miss Grace Wilson, both now deceased, formerly of Somerset, near Stovall, North Carolina, for access to their grandfather's and great-grandfather's family Bibles (also much heretofore unwritten information told me by them while I was collecting information about this branch of the family); Mr. George W. Wright of Norfolk, Virginia, for searching the records of wills in the Court House at Norfolk, Virginia; Major General Edward F. Witsell, Department of the United States Army, Washington, D. C., for military records; and Dr. William Combs Wilson of St. Charles, Missouri, and all the other members of the Wilson family for their patience with me, for answering my many letters, and for the information that was so readily given. Without this help this sketch could not have been accomplished.

EXPLANATION

In the preparation of this sketch I have discovered two lists of the names of the sons and daughters of Col. Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, in addition to the list found in my father's notes. None of these was arranged in the same chronological order. It was my good fortune in 1915 to find the Bible, claimed to be the Bible of Col. Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia. At that time this was in the hands of Miss Clementine Reid Wilson, Col. Ben's great-granddaughter, and it was my privilege to copy, with the aid of a reading glass, for the ink was badly faded, the names of their children from that Bible in the same chronological order in which they were recorded. This chronological order, and military records found, support each other. I therefore believe that this sketch contains the most accurate chronological list of Col. Ben's and Ann Seay Wilson's children to be found outside of his Bible.

It is a well known fact that memory has a habit of playing tricks on us as we advance in years. The two other lists may have been prepared from memory by older persons, hence the difference in the chronological order.

I have listed each of Col. Ben's children in Bold Face type, and when one is listed I have traced his descendants from that date to the present time to save the confusion caused by undertaking to trace all of Col. Ben's descendants by generations at the same time. For instance, I start with Capt. Matthew on page 10 and complete his line on page 31. I then treat Lt. Willis on page 32 in the same manner, and so on with each of Col. Ben's descendants.

THE WILSON FAMILY IN AMERICA

"SOMERSET" AND "BARTER HILL" BRANCH

Settlement of the territory claimed by England in America, carving a new nation out of the wilderness, required the transferring of many thousands of men and women from the shores of the Old World to the New. From the very nature of this undertaking, those men and women had to be persons who were willing, even eager, to undertake the venture. They had to be volunteers, moved by one or more reasons to uproot their lives in the Old World and brave the hardships, toil and privations incident to establishing themselves in the New. From these volunteers only able-bodied men and women, who possessed many arts and crafts, skills and sciences—men and women capable of assuming authority and becoming leaders—were selected. From English history we learn that the vast majority of those volunteers were "Dissenters" or "Protestants," who believed it to be the inherent right of all the people to read their own Bible, and to know what they were reading. Those people were well educated; they brought their clergy and their teachers with them, and set up their schools near their churches or in their own homes. Therefore, we are not surprised to find that by 1693 these colonists had established their own college—The College of William and Mary—at Williamsburg, Virginia, within fifteen miles of the site of the first permanent settlement at Jamestown in Virginia.

What could have been some of the causes or background for at least some of this voluntary migration? The years of greatest migration—1618 to 1776—were marked by a period of almost constant wars, sometimes called the Hundred Years Wars—international wars, civil wars, religious wars and persecutions, as well as displays of royal despotism. During this period of strife in England, migration to America was stimulated. Resenting the autocratic rule of James I, and of Charles I, and the dictatorship of Oliver Cromwell, hundreds of thousands left England in search of freedom—political and religious—and took refuge in America, especially Virginia. In addition to this there was something that fired the hearts of those noble men and women who volunteered to leave their homes and loved ones, that made them different from other men and women. They wanted to be independent—they possessed daring, energy, enterprise, and honesty. They had faith in themselves. Such we believe were some of the motives that prompted our forefather, James Felix Wilson, to brave the perils of the almost uncharted sea, to make the voyage in a slow sailing vessel, crowded with other emigrants, household furnishings, cattle and work stock, to risk his life and fortune in this new and strange country. It is very generally believed that our Wilson ancestors moved from England to Scotland and migrated from that country to Virginia about 1650. They first went to Jamestown, but because they arrived after the worst hardships were over, the colonists there refused to allow them (the Wilsons and those who came with them) to share equally with them (the colonists), and so the Wilsons moved down the river and settled in the vicinity of Norfolk. Among the Wilsons who came to Virginia with this party of emigrants in 1650 was one James Felix Wilson. It was from him that our "Somerset"—"Barter Hill" branch of the Wilson family in America sprang.

James Felix Wilson, solicitor to Queen Elizabeth, first English emigrant of the name, came to America in 1650, married a Miss Willis and they settled near "Poplar Grove" in what is now Princess Anne County, Virginia. Here they reared a large family of children, among whom were found the following sons—no record seems to have been made of any daughters—Willis, John, Solomon, and Samuel.

Willis married and settled in the vicinity of Norfolk, Virginia.

John married and settled on the Potomac River or Chesapeake Bay.

Solomon married and settled in Norfolk, Virginia, and was at one time Clerk of the County Court. I have made no effort to find any further record of these three sons.

Samuel married a Miss Mason and lived in Norfolk, Virginia, where he died in 1710, a few months before the birth of his only child—a son, Willis—who was named for his grandmother. Willis Wilson's father having died a few months before his birth, and his mother having married again, young Willis was reared by his uncle Solomon in Norfolk, Virginia. Living thus in such close proximity to the sea, where he could watch the ocean-going vessels come and go, and where he could meet the old sea-captains, and listen to their tales of adventure, we are not surprised to find that young Willis soon developed quite a fondness for the sea, and the adventures about which he had heard so much. He received instruction in the art of navigation and became a sea-captain, sailing his vessels between James River points and the West Indies. Sometimes, in order to secure a full cargo for a trip, it was necessary for him to operate a smaller vessel up the James River and its tributaries, to bring the freight down to the seagoing vessels anchored further down the river. On one such trip he was accompanied by his intimate friend Samuel Boush (for whom Boush Street in Norfolk, Virginia, was named). On this trip these young men met Misses Elizabeth and Frances Goodrich, the charming daughters of Mr. Benjamin Goodrich (the spelling of this name was verified by wills on file in the Norfolk County Court House), a prominent planter who lived at or near the mouth of the Chicahominy River. It is certain that these young men made many more such trips together, for I find that Miss Frances Goodrich and Samuel Boush were later married; and that Miss Elizabeth Goodrich and Willis Wilson were married in 1732 and settled in Norfolk County, Virginia. Willis Wilson was a prominent man in his time, and commanded the respect and confidence of his fellow citizens, for he was elected to represent Norfolk County in the famous House of Burgesses of the Commonwealth of Virginia for the "Assembly of 1748-1749, Session of October 27th, 1748, Session of April 10th, 1749." Stanard's Colonial Virginia Register, also Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. 25. There were born to Willis and Elizabeth Goodrich Wilson two sons (family Bible of Benjamin and Ann Seay Wilson). Willis died in 1794 at the age of 84, having served his country well.

Benjamin, the first child of Willis and Elizabeth Goodrich Wilson, was born December 26, 1733, at the home of his grandfather, Benjamin Goodrich, at or near the junction of the Chicahominy and James Rivers. He married Miss Ann Seay and settled on the Willis River in Cumberland County, Virginia.

John P., the second child of Willis and Elizabeth Goodrich Wilson, was born in 1736. He married and settled in West Virginia and became the father of one son, whom he named John P., Jr. This John P., Jr., married his second cousin, Maria Wilson (see page 33).

Benjamin Wilson, the first child of Willis and Elizabeth Goodrich Wilson, was born December 26, 1733, married Miss Ann Seay, a daughter of James Seay, a Huguenot family from the waters of the York River, in 1750, and established and settled the "Somerset" Plantation on the Willis River in Cumberland County, Virginia, where he and his faithful and devoted wife reared eight sons and five daughters, most of whom lived to be old people. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wilson both died in 1814, having lived together as man and wife for more than sixty years.

Benjamin Wilson served in the Army through the entire Revolutionary War with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel (list of the Colonial Soldiers of Virginia in the State Library in Richmond, Virginia). From hence forth he will be known as "Colonel Ben."

Matthew Wilson, the first child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia (b. 1754), married Miss Elizabeth Trent and lived and died at his home, "Barter Hill," in Cumberland County, Virginia, not far from Trent's Mill on the Willis River, where they reared ten children, most of whom lived to be old people. Matthew Wilson served through the Revolutionary War with the rank of Captain and participated in the battle of Guilford Court House in North Carolina with his brother Willis, who was so badly wounded. For the benefit of any of his descendants who may wish to join patriotic societies I insert the following certificate:

Richmond, Virginia
July 15, 1915

"I certify that the name of Captain Matthew Wilson appears in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography Volume VII, page 29, known in the Library as 'Virginia Magazine' Volume 7, page 29, and that this reference, under the Caption Virginia Militia in the Revolution shows that said Captain Matthew Wilson was an officer with the rank indicated."

His first wife was a Miss Brown, and his second a Miss Edwards. He went to Texas, where he reared a large family. I have made no effort to find any further record.

She was a young woman of excellent culture and refinement, who possessed a beautiful Christian character and lovable personality. She was lovingly known to every one as "Aunt Nellie" and was indeed a friend to all who needed a friend. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved to Missouri shortly after their wedding and there reared three children. Edward Wilson, born in 1819, the tenth child of Captain Matthew and Elizabeth Trent Wilson of "Barter Hill" in Cumberland County, Virginia, was married twice. His first wife was Miss Sarah Linton Powell whom he married in 1852 and from this union there were eight children. His first wife died in 1870 and two years later (1872) he married a widow, Mrs. Virginia Jones Scott and from this union there was one child. Mr. Wilson soon came into possession of and settled at the Old "Somerset" plantation not far from "Barter Hill," the home of his birth in Cumberland County, Virginia, where he lived until 1877, when he moved to a smaller plantation, "Mill View," which he also owned. This place was also in Cumberland County, Virginia, and only a few miles from "Somerset" and "Barter Hill." He died very suddenly at "Mill View" in August, 1893, and was buried at "Barter Hill," the place of his birth and home of his childhood. He served in the Confederate Army, Black Eagle Company, 18th Virginia Regiment, 1861-1865. His children certainly must have inherited the pioneer spirit of their ancestors, for all of them except William Henry and Jennie migrated to the West—three of them taking Homestead Claims when Oklahoma was thrown open for settlement. He was the father of nine children, all of whom were born at "Somerset."

Mary Wilson, born in 1853, the first child of Edward and Sarah Powell Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, died in 1855.

Goodrich Wilson (spelled Goodridge by other branches of the family), born March 6, 1855, the second child of Edward and Sarah Powell Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, migrated to the State of Missouri in 1886. He married Miss Flora May Wells October 24, 1888, and settled in St. Claire County, Missouri, where they lived until 1893. On September 16, 1893, the second great land rush took place in Oklahoma, when at a given signal 175,000 people rushed in to claim 6,000,000 acres of Homesteads in the northern part of the state—The Cherokee Strip—and Goodrich Wilson was one of the successful "Homesteaders." His claim was near Elk City in Chester County, Section 7, R 12, T 20. He built a claim holder's dug-out in the side of a hill and soon moved his family with him to this, in which they lived for six or seven years. He later moved his family to Carpenter, Oklahoma, where he died May 3, 1941. Mrs. Wilson died four years later, May 13, 1945. He was the father of six children:

Mrs. Arnold is a certified public accountant. They have no children.

William Henry Wilson, born August 28, 1859, was the fourth child of Edward and Sarah Powell Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia. He studied for the Presbyterian ministry, first under Rev. William Stoddart near Farmville, Virginia, then attended Bingham School from 1879 to 1882, then entered Hampden-Sydney College, where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1886, then entered Union Theological Seminary, at that time located at Hampden-Sydney, and graduated in 1889. Was licensed by West Hanover Presbytery in the Synod of Virginia at the spring meeting in 1889, ordained by Concord Presbytery in the Synod of North Carolina at the fall meeting in 1889, and Commissioner from Kings Mountain Presbytery to the General Assembly meeting in Mobile, Alabama, in May, 1904. He married Mrs. Sallie Ashlin McLean, widow of Rev. H. H. McLean, October 28, 1891, at Rivanna Church near Wilmington, Virginia. She was the youngest daughter of Dr. Charles A. Ashlin of "Rivanna Hall" near Columbia in Fluvanna County, Virginia, and his wife, who was Miss Hanna Baker of Columbus, Ohio. Miss Ashlin was reared by her grandfather, Colonel Robert Ashlin and his daughter, Mrs. John W. Rison at "Rivanna Hall"—her mother and father both died when she was only two or three years old. Miss Ashlin was educated at Fairfax Hall, a seminary for young ladies, Miss Mary E. Billings, Principal, Winchester, Virginia. I have very recently found one of her old reports bearing this notation, "This is the best report given in the collegiate department" and signed by Miss Mary E. Billings, Principal. With this report was found a letter dated June 5, 1882, and addressed to Mr. Rison from which I quote, "Sallie has won such a good name that I must write you a word about it. She was read out to large concourse of people at commencement as No. 1 in scholarship, studiousness, and deportment." The Winchester Times of June 14, 1882, in a write-up of the commencement of Fairfax Hall says, "It was announced on the night of commencement that a report of the work of the school would be published. The following is a very condensed statement of facts . . . In the Collegiate Department certificates of Special Merit were awarded to Sallie Ashlin for 19 of the highest yearly averages." She first married Rev. Harry H. McLean, a Presbyterian minister who lived only a few years leaving her a widow with two small children. She lived a widow for about seven years when she married Rev. William H. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson served as pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Norwood in Stanley County, North Carolina, and as Evangelist for Concord Presbytery from 1889 to 1890. He then moved to the New Canton group in Buckingham County, Virginia. This group was composed of New Canton, Arvonia, Rivanna, Columbia, and Scottsville Churches which he served until 1895. He then moved to Sutton, West Virginia, where he served the churches at Sutton, Flatwoods, and Burnsville from 1895 until 1900. It was during this pastorate that he was responsible for the erection of the first Presbyterian Church ever erected in Sutton, and also in Flatwoods, doing much of the actual work himself.

When he moved from New Canton, Virginia, to Sutton, West Virginia, in the late fall of 1895, he decided to drive his horse and open surrey through the country, and took my sisters, Ida and Sadie, and me with him. Mother prepared a large basket of lunch which consisted of a large boiled ham, fried chicken, several loaves of home baked bread, jars of jams and preserves, and some boiled eggs. Mother was then taken over to Grandma's at "Rivanna Hall." She had with her Mary Powell and Willie who was then just about one month old. They were to follow by train when the house in Sutton was ready. On Sunday Father preached his "Farewell Sermon" at New Canton and on Monday morning bright and early we left "Riverside" for our new home in West Virginia. The first night was spent near Scottsville, at North Garden. There was a Soap-stone quarry there, and the next morning we were taken on a sight-seeing tour through the plant. Tuesday night was spent at a farm home between Fishersville and Staunton and we got off for an early start the next morning. Wednesday, the third day out, we passed through Staunton where Father made some purchases, and went on to the foot of a mountain where we stopped for the night with another farmer. The night was cold and cloudy, and the next morning we found a light snow covering the ground but we proceeded on our journey making very slow progress up the mountain. We passed through McDowell and Monterey and spent the night with another farmer who lived in Hightown. I think this man operated a dairy for I had never seen anything like the size of his barns. Friday morning we set out to cross Cheat mountain and that night found us at Cheat Bridge. The next day being Saturday we drove only half a day and stopped at Beverley, W. Va., where Father preached on Sunday for the pastor of the Presbyterian church in that place.

Monday night was spent in Buchannon and Tuesday night of our second week found us at Flatwoods where we spent the night in the home of one of the members of Father's church near Flatwoods. I fail to remember the names of any of the people with whom we stopped, but this man said he knew Father would need some meat when he got settled in his new home in Sutton and gave him a nice country cured ham which was greatly appreciated. Shortly before noon the next day (Wednesday) we arrived in Sutton and went to the home of Mr. Lee Gorrell and his sisters, Misses Ethel and Bertha, where we stayed until our furniture, which had been shipped by train, arrived.

In 1900 Father moved from Sutton to Stanley Creek in Gaston County, North Carolina, where he served as pastor at Stanley Creek, Castanea, Machpelah, and Unity. He died at Stanley Creek, North Carolina, September 3, 1904, after a lingering illness of typhoid fever and was buried in the church cemetery. He was survived by his wife and nine young children.

He possessed a charming, cheerful personality and a happy disposition. His radiant face and happy disposition helped to scatter sunshine wherever he went. He loved a joke and always had a good story ready. He won friends naturally and easily and was loyal and sincere, with an unusual amount of consecrated common sense, and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. He was an indulgent, faithful and devoted husband, a loving, sympathizing, and unselfish father, a loyal friend, a good neighbor and a consecrated servant of his Lord and Savior, whom he loved and for whom he cheerfully endured toil and self-denial. His life's ambition was found in the following quotation from Paul's Second Epistle to Timothy 2:15, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" which he had copied on the fly leaf of most of his books.

Mrs. Wilson was a typical Southern Lady, of unusual culture and refinement, of fine business and intellectual capacity, and a devoted and Godly Mother. Twice left a widow, first with two children, and later with nine and very limited means, she so managed her affairs as to provide a comfortable home for herself and family, and give all the children a good education and instill in them the principles of true manhood and womanhood for which they "Rise up and call her blessed." As long as her health permitted she was found wherever sorrow had entered; her presence was always like that of a ministering angel, bringing faith to the doubting heart, and trust and submission to the will of Him whom she knew and trusted; saying so often "Though He slay me yet will I trust Him." Although she lived a retired life, and was scarely known beyond the bounds of her own community, yet in the example she set by her Godly life, and the training she gave the children committed to her wise and loving care, she has conferred a great blessing upon them and served her country in such a manner that she will continue to live through generations yet unborn. After Father's death in 1904 she moved with her family to Fredericksburg, Virginia, where she erected a home at 607 Hawke Street and resided until her death, April 2, 1947. She was buried in Oak Hill Cemetery, Fredericksburg, Virginia. She left us a wonderful heritage in the beautiful life, full of faith and trust, that she lived before us. The children by this union were:

On June 14, 1892, he married Miss Evalena Bennett, a young woman of fine Christian character and lovable disposition. She became a devoted wife and loving mother. The hands of a pioneer wife must have always been busy, but hers were never so busy but that she found time to devote to the religious training of the children committed to her loving care, as evidenced by the fact that one of her daughters has been a Missionary of her church to Mexico for the past twenty-five years, and the Christian service of her neighbor—the nearest being one mile away. Somewhere along her life's highway she learned the second great commandment of Christ to love her neighbor as herself and she tried to express it in her life. Wherever there is suffering or sorrow she is there offering genuine sympathy and tender sympathetic help. She is never too busy to lend a helping hand wherever it is needed, and in doing this she never appeared to neglect her own household or family duties in the least. She loves her church and the work of her Savior, and in addition to the many duties she performs for her church and her community she has found time to teach a Bible Class in her Sunday School for a quarter of a century. Although she is now nearly 80 years of age she still drives her car and almost every Sunday takes her portable organ to a not-too-far distant rest home where she plays and sings for religious services for the pleasure and edification of the guests. Hers has been a full and useful life that has been spent in the service of her family, her friends and neighbors, her community, her church, and her Lord. She now lives with her daughter, Mrs. Lena Wilson Runyan, at 2892 Cridge Street, Riverside, California.

Mr. Wilson took up public land near Fort Reno, Oklahoma, in 1889, when that state was first thrown open to "Homesteaders." His homestead certificate was number 63, dated August 12, 1902, and recorded in Oklahoma, Volume 76, page 35. Due to the great scarcity of building materials, and the extreme difficulty he would have experienced in getting it to the site, he made for himself a "dug-out" from the thick sod that he found on his land, and lived in this dug-out until he was married. Tradition claims that when he took his bride from Missouri to the sod house, he said upon arrival, "Well, here it is, where do you want the house?" He erected a small frame dwelling near the same spot and they lived in it until they moved to Fort Reno in 1902. This house is still standing. He was a very successful farmer. He died September 18, 1940. They were the parents of three children:

Jennie Edmonia Wilson, born 1873, the only child of Edward and his second wife, Mrs. Virginia Jones Scott Wilson, of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia. She never married. When she was four years old the family moved from "Somerset" to "Millview," Where she lived until her death from typhoid fever in August, 1898.

Willis Wilson, the second child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, was born in 1756. He married a Mrs. Black, formerly Miss French, and settled the "Bonbrook" plantation on or near the Willis River in Cumberland County, Virginia. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War; First Lieutenant in the First Virginia Regiment (Heitman 400), and took part in the battle of Guilford Court House in North Carolina. It was here that he was attacked by a cavalry officer, and to protect himself, he threw his arms over the horse's neck and thrust his head under the horse. During the encounter the officer struck him on the head with his sword, cutting out a piece of the skull, so that in after years it became necessary for him to have a piece of silver inserted where the piece was cut out. From his shoulder to his hand he received so many cuts that one could scarcely lay one's finger on his arm without touching a scar. He fell and his antagonist thrust him with his bayonet in the abdomen. By falling in a small stream of water the blood was staunched, and when he was found he was still alive. He was taken with the other wounded to a nearby barn. He was so desperately wounded that the surgeon gave him little attention, thinking it a waste of precious time, when so many others might be saved. A few days later clean shirts were brought for the wounded, and when Willis saw them he asked for one but was told there was none for him. Raising his voice, he shouted "I will have a clean shirt." "Well," said the Surgeon, "since you have so much spirit, you shall have one." After six weeks, while looking through a crack in the barn where he lay, he recognized the foot of his father's riding horse. His father, being unable to find out anything about him from the soldiers, had dispatched his overseer to Guilford Court House in search of him (told by Miss Clementine Reid Wilson). For his services during the Revolutionary War he not only received pay, but was granted a pension (Secretary of War Report 1835, Pensions 2, 6. Also Council Journal 1787-9, 250, E 13). He was not placed on the pension roll until November 3, 1789, although his pension was dated January 1 of the same year. I also find from the above reference that he was thirty years old when he made application for a pension. For the benefit of any of his descendants who might wish to join patriotic societies, I find the name of Willis Wilson recorded in a manuscript volume, now in the Virginia State Library, Richmond, Virginia, entitled Revolutionary Soldiers, Volume 4, pages 23 and 69, and known in the Library as "War 4"; that this reference shows under the caption "A List of Soldiers of the Virginia Line on Continental Establishment, who have received certificate of their full pay, agreeable to an Act of the Assembly passed November Session, 1781," "That he was a lieutenant, and that on the 29th day of February, 1782, he received for his services 114 pounds, and that on the 28th day of February, 1783, he received for his services 183 pounds and 7 pence." He died at "Bonbrook" in Cumberland County, Virginia, February 10, 1822, and was buried on the estate. Willis Wilson was the father of one child, Maria.

Maria Wilson, daughter of Lt. Willis and Mrs. French Black Wilson, married John P. Wilson, Jr., her second cousin, of Berkley County, West Virginia, about 1812 or 1814 (see page 9). I have found both dates given. They had two children:

William, the first child of John P. and Maria Wilson, never married.

Willis, the second child of John P. and Maria Wilson, was named for his grandfather. He married Mary Ann Wilson, his second cousin, the eighth child of Matthew and Elizabeth Trent Wilson of "Barter Hill," Cumberland County, Virginia (see page 14). From this union there were six children:

Elizabeth Trent Wilson, the first child of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson.

Willis Wilson, the second child of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson, died in 1865.

Annie Wilson, the third child of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson, married a Mr. Mitchell of Texas and reared two children—Mary and Gardner.

Maria Wilson, the fourth child of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson, married a Mr. Mitchell of Texas.

Laura Wilson, the fifth child of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson, died in 1863.

Carrie Wilson, the sixth child of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson, married a Mr. Glenn of Texas and reared two children—Mary and Bettie.

The above information about the children of Willis and Mary Ann Wilson, was copied from an old Bible in the possession of Miss Clementine Reid Wilson of Stovall, North Carolina. Father's notes have the following entry: "Mr. John P. Wilson married a second time to Miss Elizabeth Trent and from this union there were five children, Maria, Calvin, Mary, Henry, and Hampden," but I have been unable to verify the statement. It is also very doubtful that there were two Elizabeth Trents in the same generation.

Elizabeth Wilson, the third child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, never married. She was born in 1758.

Benjamin Wilson, the fourth child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, was born in 1759. He married and settled in Woodford County, Kentucky, where he and his wife reared a large family. Tradition claims that he took part in the Revolutionary War, but I have made no effort to verify this or to find any further record.

Ann Seay Wilson, the fifth child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, never married. She was born in 1762.

James Stuart Wilson, the sixth child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, was born in 1765 (old family Bible owned by Miss Clementine Wilson). He took part in the siege of Yorktown, when a youth of 16 and small for his years. One evening near the close of the siege, his cannon became too hot to be fired in safety; an older and more experienced man in charge of a cannon near him observing this, and that the boy was tired and worn, said to him: "Crawl under your gun and rest. When your piece cools off I'll fire it for you." The boy soldier did as he was told, and when he waked the sun was beaming down upon him, his face was as black as a pot from smoke and powder, and Cornwallis had surrendered. He said he thought it was the stillest day he had ever seen. He went down to the branch, washed his face and hands, and caught a little ell in his hands. Seeing a cabin nearby, he went to it and asked the woman to cook the eel for him. She had already put on a "hoe-cake" for herself, which she shared with him. He said he thought that was the best breakfast he had ever eaten (told by Miss Clementine Reid Wilson of Stovall, North Carolina). After the war he returned to "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, to live with his parents. Later he married a Miss May and settled at "Clay Bank," his beautiful plantation in Cumberland County, Virginia, where he and his faithful wife reared a large family, among whom were Ann Seay Wilson, born about 1792, and his youngest son, James Stuart Wilson, Jr., both of whom migrated to Missouri some time about 1812 or 1815.

Ann Seay Wilson, the first child of James S. and ..... May Wilson of "Clay Bank" in Cumberland County, Virginia, was born about 1792 and named for her grandmother. She migrated to Missouri about 1812 or 1815 with her younger brother, James S., Jr., and settled near the present site of Columbia, Missouri. Here she married Dr. John Meredith about 1818 and reared four daughters:

Nancy Meredith, the first child of Dr. John and Ann Seay Wilson Meredith, married Mr. James Trent about 1844. He died in 1863. They had seven children:

Hettie Meredith, the second child of Dr. John and Ann Seay Wilson Meredith, was born February 25, 1828. She married her cousin, Dr. James Willis Wilson (brother of Samuel Venable Wilson) in 1847. See page 86.

Sarah Cox Meredith, the third child of Dr. John and Ann Seay Wilson Meredith, married her cousin, Mr. Samuel Venable Wilson, in 1842 (brother of Dr. James Willis Wilson). See page 62.

Lavinia Meredith, the fourth child of Dr. John and Ann Seay Wilson Meredith, was married three times. In 1861 she married Mr. Frederick Bates, Jr. (son of Governor Frederick Bates of Missouri), who lived only a short time, leaving a son, Woodville Bates, who never married. He died in Austria while doing post graduate work in medicine. About 1867 Lavinia M. Bates married Mr. Samuel Conway, who died the next year, leaving an infant son, Meredith Conway, who married and reared a family near San Diego, California. About 1874 Lavinia Bates Conway married Mr. Benjamin Kenney and lived on her farm in Missouri, where their two sons were born. She died in 1910. Her children by this marriage were:

Benjamin Kenney, Jr., born in 1875.

William Kenney, born in 1877 and died in 1932.

James Stuart Wilson, Jr., the youngest child of James S. and ..... May Wilson of "Clay Bank" in Cumberland County, Virginia, migrated to Missouri about 1812 or 1815 with his oldest sister, Ann Seay Wilson, and settled in Audrain or Montgomery County, where his descendants are now living in or near Columbia, Missouri, though I have been unable to contact any of them.

Mason Wilson, the seventh child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, never married. He was nicknamed "Swaney."

Samuel Wilson, the eighth child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, was born about 1770. He never married. When Doctor Austin Wharton of Cartersville, Virginia, became very old, the leading men of that community, realizing that they would soon be without a doctor, selected this young man to become their physician. He was sent to Edinburgh, Scotland, where he was a student of medicine for seven years. Returning from Scotland, Dr. Wilson began the practice of his profession at Cartersville in Cumberland County, Virginia, where he soon acquired an extensive practice and proved himself to be one of the most eminent physicians of his time—few, if any, ranked higher. After he became too old to practice he returned to his father's old home, "Somerset," in Cumberland County, where he died.

Mary Wilson, the ninth child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, married Mr. Thomas Mumford. She was born about 1772.

Alexander Wilson, the tenth child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, settled in Kentucky. I have made no effort to find any further record.

Goodrich Wilson: While we were living at "Riverside," near New Canton in Buckingham County, Virginia, during the summer of 1894, cousin Nora Wilson, daughter of Goodrich and Nellie D. Wilson of Missouri, spent a part of the summer in our home. It was during her visit that I first learned that Father was collecting information about his family history. On one occasion he and cousin Nora were discussing the spelling of her father's name as well as that of Uncle Trent's. I remember very distinctly hearing Father tell her that his father, Edward Wilson, had told him and others that the story was told that Benjamin Goodrich, the father of Elizabeth and Frances Goodrich, had a brother who spelled his name Goodridge, but that Benjamin and the rest of the family spelled theirs Goodrich. However, when I began work on this sketch I found the name spelled both ways. This established a doubt in my own mind as to the correct spelling and I resolved to do what I could to find the correct spelling. I conceived the idea that if I could discover some of the wills of the family I would find the correct spelling. This I have done in Norfolk County, Virginia. Benjamin Goodrich may have had a brother who spelled the name Goodridge, but Benjamin Goodrich spelled his name Goodrich. He was the father of Elizabeth Goodrich, who became the maternal ancestor of our Goodriches. I have made further research and I do not find either name Goodrich or Goodridge in the Wilson family before the marriage of Willis Wilson and Elizabeth Goodrich in 1732. Therefore I am convinced beyond a shadow of a doubt that the correct spelling of the name is Goodrich. Correspondence with descendants of this son reveal the fact that they all spell the name GOODRIDGE, and a very recent letter brings me the same story that I heard Father tell cousin Nora in 1894 about the two brothers. Since I have neither the desire nor the authority to change a person's name, I shall therefore designate this son as Goodridge Wilson the 1st, the eleventh child of Colonel Ben and Ann Seay Wilson of "Somerset" in Cumberland County, Virginia, born March 26, 1776 or 1777. He studied medicine at Oxford, England, and became one of the most prominent physicians of his time and section. He married Miss Elizabeth Woodson Venable (1784-1845) of "Slate Hill" in Prince Edward County, Virginia. She was a daughter of Colonel Nathaniel Venable and his wife, who was Miss Anne Micheaux Woodson of "Slate Hill" in Prince Edward County, Virginia. It was in Colonel Venable's home that Hampden-Sydney College was founded. Dr. Wilson lived at "Millwood" and practiced his profession in Prince Edward and adjoining counties for thirty-five years, then moved to Johnson Shoals, Kanawha County, West Virginia, in 1836. There were born to Dr. and Mrs. Wilson nine children, five of whom migrated to Missouri and raised families.

Anna Thomas Wilson, the first child of Dr. Goodridge the 1st and Elizabeth Venable Wilson of "Millwood," Prince Edward County, Virginia, and Kanawha County, West Virginia, was born in 1806 and died in 1887. Airie." Here they reared eight children: Captain Woodson died in 1887 in his 93rd year, just a few months after the death of his wife.

Longevity was a characteristic in this family. In the childhood of Captain Woodson, George Washington was President. His daughters lived to see the election of Herbert Hoover. Therefore father and daughters saw the drama of the American Republic from the first President to 1929.

Julia Bates Woodson, the sixth child of Captain Charles Friend and Anna T. Wilson Woodson, was born in Chesterfield County, Virginia, in 1845, and migrated to Missouri as a babe in her mother's arms. She married Mr. Newton Stoutmyer and lived in Kansas. They had four children:

There can be no end to a sketch like this. It is ever living, changing, expanding.

Since this work was begun many years ago, the writer has been successful in establishing contact with every member of the "Barter Hill" branch of the family, which descended from Captain Matthew Wilson; and with practically every member of the branch of the family that descended from Dr. Goodridge the 1st, most of whom migrated to Missouri. Some have definitely said they were "Not interested in such an undertaking," and some did not receive my letters. Therefore, information regarding them is very meagre, it having been necessary to secure it from other sources. Every effort has been made to see that such as has been received was accurate, but of course there will be mistakes.

A large majority of the descendants have been successful farmers, while a large percent have been Ministers of the Gospel. The number of Elders, Deacons, Trustees, Clerks, Treasurers, Sunday School Superintendents, Teachers, and Missionaries prove conclusively that the descendants are remaining true to the faith of their fathers.

In addition to religious work, members of the family are taking the leading parts in many other professions and vocations. There are quite a number of prominent Physicians and Surgeons, several Judges, many Attorneys, Civil Engineers, College and University Professors, Electrical, Clerical, and Industrial Engineers, Dentists, Postmasters, R.F.D. Mail Carriers, Legislators, Auditors, Insurance men and so on through the list of vocations and professions.

Members of the family have always shown their patriotism. Colonel Ben and three of his sons—Captain Matthew, Lieutenant Willis, and Private James Stuart, served during the Revolutionary War. Others served in the War of 1812, and still others served in the War between the States. But that is not all, the family sent soldiers to the Spanish-American War, and to World Wars I and II.

This family sketch gives a cross-section of the middle class American—a class of people that can be truly called the backbone of America. As a rule they lived simple, modest lives, owning their homes, rearing self dependent families, and contributing their part to their respective neighborhoods, and faithful to their God—Good American Citizens.

The family name has been kept clean and untarnished through the years and each succeeding generation has passed on that priceless heritage.
